U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters Korea, Sept. 24 — (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet today said his Eighth Army has killed or wounded 58,000 Communist soldiers in Korea since Aug. 18.

The report covered the entire 180-mile front.

About 80 per cent of the Red losses were in the bloody "battle of the hills" in eastern Korea.

The figure represents almost six Red divisions.

Van Fleet said 2,800 Red were taken prisoner in the same period. The casualty tolls of killed or wounded have been "evaluated," he said, "on the basis of the army's estimate after all field reports and reports have been discounted for possible duplication or exaggeration."

Since the Allies pushed off on limited offensives in eastern Korea, they have captured enough material to equip nearly a full Red division, the Eighth Army said.

Most of the Red losses were incurred after the Reds broke off the offensive in the last week of August.

The Allies have not lost a yard of ground in either North or South Korea.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said more than 800 Communist trucks were destroyed or damaged on the west coast Sept. 21 in pre-dawn attacks.

Units said they spotted about 2,500 vehicles. They reported 375 were burned and 430 damaged.

A radio dispatch said the Fifth Air Force "destroyed" an estimated 200 Red troops in a night attack on Sept. 21.

The Allies picture was not so bright in Monday's ground action, when North Korean Reds launched a counterattack and drove American units back to the "Heartbreak Ridge" in eastern Korea.

American troops had gained control of the ridge late Sunday night, but the Reds took it back in a dawn attack.

MISTER BRANDON'S KINDERGARTEN CLASS—It's a rare job for a man, teaching five-year-old kindergarten students, but Richard Brandon of the Willoughby, O., McKinley School finds it to his liking. "These people are as important as anyone," says Brandon, 22-year-old university-trained teacher. "I'll teach kindergarten as long as I can be understanding and patient." Trying to his patience for a time was the habit his "people" had of calling him "Miss Brandon."

Jerusalem covered most of the front lines of the heartbreak week was a bitter blow to the weary doughboys. They first captured the heights Sept. 17 after a bitter hand-to-hand battle. They lost it the next day.

Monday's setback came just as it seemed the Allies were rounding out their five-week conquest of strategic high ground in the east-central front.

It left the United Nations with a hard choice: hurl still heavier attacks against the deadly slopes, or end the offensive without one of its greatest prizes.

Washington, Sept. 24 — (AP) — Rep. Reece (R-Tenn.) says he has heard that this country plans to build $500,000,000 worth of roads for defense purposes in France and that the French will levy a 20 per cent tax on the outlay.

He asked Secretary of Defense Lovett about it in a letter he made public yesterday.

Reece also wanted the secretary to tell him:

1. Whether the First Army or Second Division has been earmarked for transport to Europe.

2. If so, will it be the seventh division to be sent to Europe and "just how many divisions are contemplated for Europe?"

Announced plans are to station six U. S. divisions in Western Europe as part of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic army.

Publishers Fear Rising Expenses

By JUSTIN R. ANDERSON

Hat Springs, Sept. 24 — (AP) — K. A. Engel, president of the Southern newspaper Publishers association, contended today that newspapers have been and can be destroyed by mounting costs of production, just the same as by the order of a national dictator.

He referred to the suspension of La Prensa in Buenos Aires, Argentina, which he called "one of the great newspapers of the world."

In the president's annual report at the great newspapers of the world.

In the president's annual report at the opening session of the SNPA 48th three-day convention here, Engel, publisher of the Arkansas Democrat in Little Rock, added:

"Burdensome as they may be, we must solve the economic problems of our newspapers if we are going to continue to have and enjoy freedom of the press. This constitutional guarantee, which insures our citizens individual liberty, can only be maintained as long as we have an economically free press."

Turning to trade matters, Engel said that newspaper has become the major problem of newspapers and declared that more newspaper is needed.

In this connection the SNPA's newspaper mills committee, headed by George C. Bligges of the Atlanta Journal, reported that Bowater Paper Co., Inc., of Newfound, plans to build a mill near Charleston, Tenn. 15 will have a capacity of 130,000 tons of newsprint yearly.

This would give the south a third newsprint factory. Others are situated at Lufkin, Tex., and Coosa River, Ala. The committee report that other newsprint manufacturers have indicated interest in locating in the south. Plans for a paper mill at Prescott, Ark., the report stated, have been postponed.

In a companion report, the newsprint committee, headed by G. A. Corcoran of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, proposed that:

(A) The Coosa river and Lufkin mills again be asked to install a third machine to increase the newsprint production (both re fused earlier requests)

(B) Formation of a committee comprising representatives of producers and consumers of newsprint for the purpose of developing a better understanding — the committee said that relations between the two groups had deteriorated, and

(C) That publishers give active editorial support to tree planting programs and good forestry practices as a means to improve the basic ingredient of paper.

Ex-Government Worker Tells of Gifts

Washington, Sept. 24 — (AP) — A former government employee, who helped put out air force publications, told today of receiving liquor, hams, turkeys and more expensive gifts — and borrowing $12,100 — from officials of two printing firms.

Testifying at a senate inquiry Charles A. Moring said that both companies — American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis, and Laurel Printing Co., of New York — were doing business with the government at the time.

But Moring swore he never influenced, or tried to influence, the award of contracts to the companies.

Moring said he borrowed $8,100 from an official of American Lithofold and $6,000 from an official of Laurel.

At the time of the loans, Moring was on the government payroll at $6,400 a year. Last March, he resigned to take a job with American Lithofold at $25,000 a year. He is now that company's eastern district sales manager.

Moring testified before a senate investigations subcommittee which is inquiring into charges of political influence in lending by the government's Reconstruction Finance corporation (RFC).

American Lithofold has borrowed $365,000 from RFC. One of the questions the senators are looking into is whether that loan was influenced by the fact that he never, while with the air force, received any telephone calls from Boyle, or from Guy Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, pressing him to award or alter any printing contracts.

Another witness, James B. E. Olson told the senators he had contacted a brewery and liquor wholesaler on behalf of American Lithofold while serving as a federal alcohol tax unit district supervisor in New York.

Olson said he went on American Lithofold's payroll at $750 a month in February, 1949, and continued in the printing firm's employ until June, 1951. He held the government post from 1947 until his resignation a few months ago.

He testified that in June or July, 1949, he telephoned an official of the Ruppert Brewing Co., and suggested that he see an American Lithofold representative about some printing the company was going to have done.

Moring testified he received $6,100 in a series of loans from R. A. Blumner, son of Lithofold's president. He said he was not aware at the time that it was the company and not the younger Blumner, whom he described as a close personal friend, who put up the money.

Moring said he received $6,000 through Frederick W. Weisler at the firm of a gentleman in the Laurel firm whom he later named as Ben Grossman. He said he does not know whether Grossman was president or vice president of the firm, and that they were "not close friends, but not strangers, either."

Moring said he has paid back $1,000 of the loan from Grossman. Committee members peeped Moring with questions as to whether he considered it proper to accept favors from the two firms.

He said he had to borrow $9,000 of the money because his wife needed a major operation.

Convinced Woman Weaker Sex

Miami, Fla., Sept. 24 — (AP)—Erie Johnson, 52, is convinced that women are not the weaker sex. Johnson reported to police yesterday that he was sitting on a bus stop bench when three women approached him and began an argument.

He said the pinned him to the ground, took off one of his shoes, hit him on the head with it, and took $3 from his pocket. Then they threw his shoe into high weeds and he couldn't find it.

He was taken to Jackson Memorial hospital for emergency treatment of a gash on the forehead.

He told officers he felt a "little lucky because they missed $5 hidden in another pocket."

Red Dean in Prayer for King George

London, Sept. 24 — (AP)—Britain's "red dean," Dr. Hewlett Johnson, led a special service for the king in historic Canterbury cathedral yesterday.

The dean, who often visits behind the Iron Curtain and has supported many Communist projects, usually leaves the service to a subordinate.

Special prayers were said in all British churches — Anglican, Catholic and non-conformist — for the king's recovery.

At Liverpool cathedral the national anthem — "God Save the King" — was recited as a prayer.

Queen Elizabeth and her daughters attended a special service Sunday morning in the private chapel of Lambeth palace, London, residence of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Chiefs of Britain's political parties laid aside their differences to send joint messages of sympathy to Queen Elizabeth on the king's illness.

It was signed by Prime Minister Clement Attlee (Labor), Winston Churchill (Conservative) and Clement Davies (Liberal).

Miami, Fla., Sept. 24 — (AP)—Some 2,500 bathers became runners in a few seconds Sunday when a six-foot shark streaked shoreward in pursuit of a fish dinner.

Forrest Rand of Miami said the shark came in swiftly from the open Atlantic "with a large white dorsal fin cutting the surface of the water." The shark's immediate prey was a pan-fried bonito but the bathers couldn't be sure he wouldn't switch from fish to red meat.

Mass of Cool Air Sweeps Midwest

By The Associated Press

A mass of cool Canadian air surged into the middlewest early today to mark the first day of fall. The Great Lakes region and the central Mississippi valley was blanketed with typically fall weather as the cool air pushed southeastward.

The northeastern and central Atlantic states also had a touch of cool air.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were occurring early today in the central plains states and in some portions of the Great Lakes area.

Northern Montana had some snow and a shower area hovering over the state.

Some early morning temperatures included Chicago 58, New York 61, Miami 79, Fort Worth 75, Jamestown, N. D. 26 Seattle 54 and Los Angeles 66.

Excellent trout, grayling and salmon fishing is found in Alaska's Katmai National Monument.

DOROTHY DIX

Old World Attitude

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a high school graduate and am planning on entering college to study either teaching or social work. My parents can afford to finance my education and I have a scholarship which will cover fees and the cost of books. This is my problem: My mother, who was born abroad, the attitude of many who cling to old-world traditions, that is, that too much education endangers a girl's chances of marriage. I am going with a boy from my home town who has a good job, but my mother doesn't approve of him; she wants to arrange a marriage with a man of my own nationality, as is still done among many of our people. All my mother's friends agree with her that a college girl is practically doomed to be an old maid, and that, they believe, is the worst fate that can befall her.

What should I do? Insist on a career, and then marry, or marry now in accordance with my mother's wishes?

Answer: Your mother must face the fact that she has left her home land and must accept at least some of the principles of good living that have made our country the great nation that it is. Rejected, of course, must be the "smart alecky" attitudes were occurring early today in the central plains states and in some portions of the Great Lakes area.

Northern Montana had some snow and a shower area hovering over the state.

Some early morning temperatures included Chicago 58, New York 61, Miami 79, Fort Worth 75, Jamestown, N. D. 26 Seattle 54 and Los Angeles 66.

ideas that masquerade as "modern thought" and it must indeed be a chore for a stranger to our shores to discriminate between these and our sound traditions.

Girl's Schooling Important

Our high standards of education are among those things which must be assimilated. This especially applies to education for women, which in foreign lands is practically unheard of. In many European countries a girl receives no schooling beyond the absolute rudiments of reading and writing. Here, things are entirely different. A woman receives as much education as she can possibly finance and is mentally fit for, and no one can gainsay the fact that she is the better off for it. Teaching, nursing and social work alone are predominantly female professions which require high standards of education. It is very foolish to say that all women in the fields are old maids. In fact, very few of them are! A survey will show that in any school, most of the teachers are either married or engaged.

Looking at your position from a personal viewpoint, you are now presumably 18 at most. You'll graduate from college at 22, which by American standards fall short of the "old maid" category. Higher education will increase, rather than decrease, your chances of a good marriage, and the security of a profession to fall back on in case of emergency is not to be lightly discarded. In this insecure world, it is a wonderful thing to have.

With your qualification, ambition and financial stability (plus the fact that you are not emotionally involved to a serious point with any boy), stick to your plans and try to convince your mother that this is the American way—and one of the best!

Dear Miss Dix: I am 19 years old and have gone with an wonderful fellow of 23 for over two years. We are both very much in love and plan to marry in about two years. This may sound a little juvenile, but it really has bothered me for some time. His surname is one of the worst I've ever heard of. I would like to know how to go about asking him to have it changed before we get married. I don't want to hurt him if I can help it. Also, could you give me some information about changing one's name.

Answer: Having a name changed

is a fairly simple procedure; any lawyer can handle it. However, getting your fiancé's consent is very likely to be more difficult. Pride in one's family name is rooted in our natures and always has been. No matter how uncouth, absurd or ridiculous the name, as long as its honor is unsullied we are proud of it. Your fiancé's family has lived under this name for many generations and a suggestion to change it, from you, is not likely to meet with enthusiasm. What the name doesn't matter too much; how and where it is used is the important factor. If it is kept out of scandalous sheets and away from questionable associations, don't worry about it!

You might try a tentative suggestion on your fiancé and see how he reacts to a possible change but don't by any means, make an issue out of it if he repels the idea — as I'm sure he will!

Dear Miss Dix: We are about to be married, and are confused about how to address our mother-in-laws. I have two recently married friends who address their husbands' mother as "Mrs. Jones." To me, this does not seem courteous nor polite, as these women are more than good to them. I have also heard friends address their mother-in-law as "Mom," or "Mother Jones." My own mother speaks to grandmother as "Mother." What should I do?

Answer: If a good mother-and-daughter relationship is to be established between mother-in-law and daughter-in-law as it should be the form of address should be in keeping. I wholeheartedly agree that for a girl to address her mother-in-law as "Mrs. Jones" is most discourteous. Two factors must be taken into consideration, besides the girl's wishes. First, a mother-in-law may prefer a special title such as "Mom" or "Mother." Second, if possible, some distinction in title should be made between the two mother-in-laws to avoid confusion. If you have called your own mother "Mother," use "Mom" for your mother-in-law, if that is in accordance with her desire. "Mother Jones" is also proper, but not as kindly as a more informal address.

Yanks, Bums Move Nearer to Series

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York's outmarching Yankees and Brooklyn's back-peddaling Dodgers are all but mathematically certain to meet for the fourth time in 21 years, in baseball's top classic, the World Series.

Both came closer to clinching their respective championships yesterday. The Yankees increased their American league lead over Cleveland to two and a half games, beating the Red Sox in the rubber game in Boston, 6-1. The revenge-minded Tigers, meanwhile thumped the Indians for the third straight time in Detroit, 9-1.

The Dodgers snapped a two-game losing streak with a 4-2 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies and retained their three game National league lead over the hard-pressing
New York Giants. The Polo Grounders, fighting a seemingly losing battle, again whipped the Boston Braves, 4-1.

The magic number is now three for the Yankees and four for the Dodgers. The Yankees, with a four-game edge on the important losing side over the Indians and third-place Red Sox, need only three of their remaining six to wrap up the flag, even if Cleveland wins its final three and Boston its final games. Two Yankee victories insure at least a tie.

Any combination of four Dodge victories and one Giant defeat brings the pennant to Brooklyn. If the Dodgers capture four of their last seven games, the Giants can win all their remaining five and still wind up also-rans.

Vick Raschi became the fifth American league pitcher and the 11th in the majors, to win 20 games with an eight-hitter over the Red Sox. It was his third straight 20-game winning season.

Not since 1928 have the majors boasted as many as 11 in this charmed circle. The record number of 20-game winners was 17 in 1908, 1905 and 1920. The American league high of 10 was set in 1907 and equaled in 1920. The National league high of nine was set in 1901 and duplicated in 1903 and 1914.

THIS STORY John Clayton, explorer of the American West, was born in Indiana country. He was the son of a pioneer and the grandson of a pioneer. He was a pioneer in the sense that he was the first to explore the

He was a pioneer in the sense that he was the first to explore the

VI
COLONEL CARRINGTON thought he knew a George Custer of the Fifth Cavalry. Although it had been the Third Armory, and he called an orderly.

An orderly stepped in, saluting.
"Bring me those files on regimental distribution, the new ones.
No, have Sergeant Kelly look it up.
I want to know where General
George A. Custer is, Fifth Cavalry."

"Yes, sir."
While the orderly was gone,
Carrington tried drawing me out.
I told him it was useless, that the past for me had ceased at Appomattox.

"There's a Lieutenant Colonel Custer in the T. O. of the Seventh, sir. Would that be him?" The orderly had returned.

"Yes, of course. So Custer's family been busted back, eh? He had a long ride. Last I heard he was still coasting on his war revet, two stars, I think. And a new regiment, too. Well, that's the cavalry for you. All the cream, the blue-john's left for the Infantry."

"Beg pardon, Colonel," I suggested. "I didn't get the location."
"Of course you didn't. Speak up, Simpson. Where is he?"
"Fort Riley, sir, Kansas."

"Once out of sight of the fort, I suffered a twinge of that 'Indian prescience' which was rapidly becoming a part of my frontier character. I turned north, cutting across country for the Tongue valley.
I told myself I wanted one last look at that big war camp before heading south."

New Coaches Come Out Fairly Well

By ORLO ROBERTSON

New York Sept. 24 — (AP) — Thirteen of the more than 50 college football coaches who took over new assignments this year are feeling right well today, thank you — they won their first games.

The coaches clearing their first hurdle successfully over the weekend include such big time mentors
as Eddie Price, Texas, Jess Hill, Southern California, Bill Murray, Duke Chuck Taylor, Stanford and Ray George, Texas A&M.

And not one of them was asked to display his coaching skill against a set-up. They met and disposed of opposition that would have done credit to mid-season rival.

Price sent his Texas Longhorns against a Babe Parilli-directed Kentucky eleven and won 7-6.
Hill's Trojans of Southern California opened their Pacific Coast conference campaign with a 31-21 triumph over Washington State.

And in the same league Taylor's trained Indians of Stanford nosed out Oregon 27-20, also under a new boss — Pen Casanova.

Murray returned to his alma mater with a split-T formation that rode over South Carolina 34-6.
Texas A&M, making their debut under George's system, beat UCLA on Friday night 21-14.

Keeping pace with their big-time coaching brothers in starting their new jobs with a victory were Dutch Clark, Detroit Marvin Bass, of William and Mary Dave Nelson, Deleware Tom Rogers, Luke
Forest Larry Siemerling, Arizona
State at Tempe Ara Parseghian, Richmond and Bernard Mertes, Bradley.

Bass, taking over at William and Mary and after Rube McCarty resigned during the school's athletic scandal, showed plenty of offense but little defense in downing Boston university 34-25.

Murray left little in the way of material when he departed from Delaware for Duke but he did not make good use of what he had to whip Lehigh, unbeaten last season,

Skilled Airmen Keeping U. S. Ahead in War

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Sept. 24 — (AP) — For American airmanhood, instead of airplanes, is keeping the U. S. ahead in the almost daily duels with Soviet-made jet fighters in Korea.

Air force headquarters here said today that from last February, when the first enemy jet was shot down, through Sept. 11, the air score in Korea has been this:

MIG-15s shot down—72.
United Nations jets destroyed—200.

This is a curiously lopsided score particularly so in view of communications reports indicating that many, perhaps a majority, of all the air encounters have involved superior numbers of the Red jets.

The testimony of both American pilots who fight the MIG and of high officials here who now have had opportunity to see technical, engineering reports on the enemy jets (presumably based in part on study of at least one crashed or captured MIG) is that the MIG is an excellent airplane.

"It can, say the pilots and technical analysts, fly as fast and maneuver as well as the best of American jets in operation in Korea although not as well as jet fighters still in the development stage or in actual production at home. In firepower, the MIG can shoot heavier caliber weapons, but the American jets can fire faster, so that seems to balance.

In answer to questions, the air force says these factors are why the Red fighters are being shot down:

"Superior gunnery by U. N. pilots. (It is possible that in addition to shooting better, U. S. pilots have, in this instance, an advantage of better design. Some reports say the MIG-15s use an obsolete type of gunsight, popular in World War II but inadequate for the fast-action, high-speed fight of plane combat.)

"Many U. N. pilots are World War II combat veterans and need little if any doubt that many of the enemy pilots have had similar combat experience." (There is a general belief, although not yet proved, that Russian pilots may fly some of the MIGs in the Korean action with other pilots by Russian-trained Asiatic Communists.)

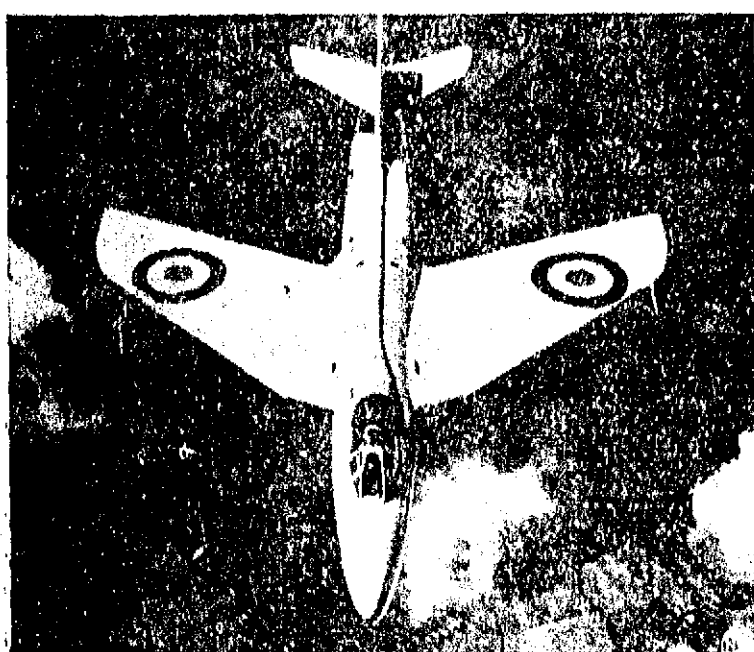

"The U. N. has maintained the same units in Korea. On the other hand, the varied techniques and tactics of the enemy suggests that different units are put into fights." (This could reflect a shifting of units with consequent loss of combat experience, as the air force says, or mean that the Soviet tutors are trying out new combat ideas in an effort to find weaknesses in the U. N. air combat patterns.)

"American designs see the MIG as a Russian improvement upon two or three of the final models of jet fighters developed in the closing months of the war by the Germans. Planes, blueprints and mechanical brains were captured by the Russians. The MIGs encountered in Korea are armed with a 37 millimeter cannon and two cannons of 20 or 23 millimeter caliber.

In China the peach tree is thought of variously as the tree of life and the tree of death. It is also associated with love and with longevity.

MINORITY VIEW AT OTTAWA—While top officials of the North Atlantic Pact nations met in Parliament Hall, Ottawa, Ont., lines of pickets bearing signs—many of which had an unmistakable Red tinge—paraded outside the hall. The Atlantic Treaty Council is meeting to consider ways and means to further bolster free Europe's defenses against Communist aggression.

HAWKER OVER ENGLAND—Seemingly to hang in mid-air over the patch-quilt English countryside in the new swept-wing fighter, the Hawker P-1087. The jet, called by the British Air Ministry "the fastest in the world," is being put into quantity production. Performance and armament details are closely guarded secrets.

The rooms were colorful with arrangements of roses, marigolds and other fall flowers.

"Right!" shouted Fetterman. Within minutes the stockade gates swung open and Capt. W. J. Fetterman rode out at the head of his 80 men to keep his date with destruction.

He disobeyed his orders before he was out of sight of the fort. Ten Indian decoys showed themselves in the brush along Big Piney Creek. They were so close to the fort Carrington actually threw a couple of cannonshots at them. Believing panic the decoys out and ran for the hills to the north—away from the wood train. Fetterman swung his command after them.

That was the last any white man, myself excepted, saw of Fetterman and his troopers, alive.

SEEING him make this idiotic move (he had refused point-blank to have me scout for him) I ran to Carrington. For once the colonel was ahead of me. "Clayton," he called, as I came up, "a relief column is going out at once. Fetterman may get into real trouble. Capt. Tom Eyck will go after him with the rest of the infantry. I want you to go with him."

When I started up the east fork of Pine Creek to try and head Fetterman, I ran into a literal wasp's nest of hostiles. The woods were alive with them. Only the fact some of the warriors were chanting a last-minute war prayer, saved me from blundering into their arms. I grabbed Hussein's nose, tied it tight with a pigskin string, snubbed him short-up in a dense clump of birch, began snaking down-creek on my belly for a view of the ridge.

Far down the ridge, almost to the bottom, rode Fetterman with his 40 pony-soldiers. Behind him, halfway down, came the remaining group of walk-a-beeps, the whole command being already deep within the jaws of the waiting trap. I had time to see the decoys riding back and forth down on the creek flats, still drawing Fetterman's fire, before both sides of the ridge seemed to erupt. They came rabbiting out of every conceivable cover, armed to the teeth.

Polio Victim Dies, Baby Is Saved

Shreveport La., Sept. 24 — (AP) — A 23-year-old expectant mother died of polio last night but her six-month baby boy was saved by a post-mortem cesarean operation.

Dr. George Wolfe, medical director of the Shreveport polio center, said "This is one of the rare instances in medical history that a baby has been saved when the mother died in the respirator. Its exceedingly rare."

The mother was Mrs. Shirley McCarthy, wife of Sgt. Raymond McCarthy of Barksdale Air Force base here. McCarthy, 24, is from Narberth, Pa.

Mrs. McCarthy, eight months pregnant at the time of her death, was transferred to the polio center from the Barksdale hospital Sept. 16.

Dr. Wolfe said her condition became steadily worse and it was apparent she would not recover.

"The only alternative we had was to try to save the baby," the doctor said.

He said plans were made for the cesarean operation and physicians and nurses were standing by when Mrs. McCarthy died. Seconds after her death, physicians opened the respirator and completed the operation in three minutes.

"The baby was placed in an incubator 'and is doing very well,' Dr. Wolfe said. "It's amazing to us."

New York, Sept. 24 — Press agents of the union racket, operating in the guise of "labor columnists," have been holding forth soundly on hardships and swindles inflicted on American structural workers in Alaska and other defensive outposts. These press agents of the great corruption conceal the fact that the unions, themselves, are co-conspirators with the padrones who defraud the workmen with false promises of comfortable quarters and good food at moderate prices.

It may be noted, but only in passing, that these men are drawing exorbitant pay and overtime benefits and are not entitled to fixed low prices for the facilities which they use and, the things which they buy. But that is a parenthetical point. The important truth is that the unions also extort money from these workers on the defenses and do nothing for them. The unions could put a stop to the oppressions instantly if the racketeers were of a mind to.

The union press-agents complain that these workers are forced to buy their jobs from employment agencies in New York, Chicago and in western labor areas. But the sale of jobs has been a racket for many years and is protected and defended by the American Federation of Labor. And the unions' methods of collection are much more direct and brutal than those of the employment agencies. But the racket is a protegee of the crooked Democratic administration in Washington, and is therefore immune.

Let me quote an authentic letter published by the Fairbanks Newsmen last June 14:

"I write to explain another method employed by unions to keep the leaders in complete control and numbers well disciplined," says a communication from Matthew L. Kamper, who should have used the word "bosses" or "racketeers" instead of "leaders," throughout.

"This letter will consider job disposal. This is one of the most efficient, ruthless and dastardly means of discipline available to the union leader." Mr. Kamper is a one-man revolution who personally wrecked a union hall and kicked the ears off a union boss by way of remonstrance and was fined by a typical New Deal court.

"Under the union hiring practice, all men must hire out through the union and must have a dispatch slip from the union boss to present at job site.

"The employer cannot and will not hire a man without this dispatch slip.

"So by withholding this dispatch slip, either openly or on some pretext, these labor leaders, regularly, starve into submission members who advocate a course of action contrary to their wishes.

"Also members out of favor with the union leader are given dispatch slips to distant job sites (to keep them away from meetings) or to shift or otherwise undesirable jobs with a lot of lost time between jobs.

"The majority of members are family men, and all members have their financial problems to meet. It takes a stout hearted person to buck the union leaders.

"By granting continually the dispatch slips to the best jobs to the members who back the policies of the union boss, by dividing the jobs in slack periods among these same men and keeping them working for a far greater period of each year, by ignoring the non-supporters of union policies, and by fining, abusing, and starving the dissenters, the labor leader soon surrounds himself with a hierarchy of stooges and ward heeters, whose zeal and efficiency in carrying out the dictates of the union boss, is rivaled only by a complete lack of principle and regard for the welfare of the other union members.

"Another practice is to have an agreement with several foremen. These foremen get the best craftsmen and in times of labor scarcity are assured of a supply of men for their crews.

"In return for this, these foremen use their influence with their crews, to bring the boys to meetings and have them vote right. Most issues on the meeting floor are decided by a standing vote, and a very agreeable result is obtained when a member votes with both the dispatch agent and his foreman watching him.

"The union hiring hall and dispatch system are illegal. That they still are in existence is more testimony to the fact that the United States laws mean little to the unions. The unions openly defy the judicial system. Might makes right in organized labor, and here indeed is one irrefragable pressure group for the public to watch.

"In bringing this sordid picture before the public, I sincerely believe that I am serving the best interest of both the public and all union rank and file members.

"I do not consider myself anti union. Few people are."

Some newspapers regularly publish the flagrant pronouncement and comment by covert union pressagents. These papers are willing parties to a fraud upon their readers. This is a serious corruption in our journalism. It should be faced with honest courage in the frivolous annual deliberations of the magnates of the press.

Beer May Have Caused Death of a Baby

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 24 — (AP) — Officers here today said a year-old baby died a beer-drinking teenager fed it half a bottle of brew.

The child, Leslie Fletcher, died Saturday night.

A 17-year-old boy was placed in jail without charge after he told Detective Capt. Will Fritz that he gave the infant boy the beer; then tried to revive it with orange soda pop.

Blood tests will be completed today to determine the alcoholic content of the baby's blood. A physician said the baby might have been so intoxicated that he struggled on the soda pop.

The infant was left with a 16-year-old girl sister in south Dallas by the mother, Mrs. Clifford P. Fletcher. The child's father is in the army.

The baby sitter was joined by another girl about her age and two boys, 17 and 16. As the two couples sat in a car in front of the house, the older boy held the infant in his lap and gave it beer from the bottle.

"The baby started turning greenish blue and I gave him an orange drink and he went to sleep," the boy told Fritz.

Later he said in a signed statement that the baby's fingers "were drawing up and his face discolored."

The youth called a doctor and was told to wrap the baby in a blanket. An hour later the baby "still was groaning and waving his hands and his fingers were still drawing." He called the doctor again and was told to take the child to a hospital.

The boy was dead on arrival at the hospital at 10 p.m.

The Mulenders take on once-defeated Little Rock Junior college in Little Rock next Saturday.

The Bears of Arkansas State Teachers college upset early season hopes of Little Rock when they eked out a last minute, 24-19, victory.

The JC Trojans had their way until a fumble war reconverted by the Bears and turned into a swimming touchdown.

Teachers, hoping for their second conference victory, move to Arkadelphia Saturday to meet Ouachita's Tigers.

Arkansas State, which suffered a 32 to 0 touching by Mississippi State is not eligible for the championship.

Arkansas A & M found out-of-state competition east to handle in dumping Mississippi college, 25-0, Saturday night. The Aggies will be host to Henderson next week-end.

Pope Makes Decision on Evolution Theory

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Sept. 24 — (AP) — Pope Pius says that the theory of evolution can be studied so far as it deals with origins of the human body but should not be allowed to raise question as to divine creation of the human soul.

He told 80 members of the Order of Discalced (unshod) Carmelites here that his August 1950 encyclical discussing errors in theology and science were not intended to impede liberty of discussion in scientific fields. The 16th century order was observing the 25th anniversary of its international college.
